

JD/MAcc Program – Professional Stem
Fall 2023

1. Up to twelve (12) credits can be waived for the MAcc. Courses that can be waived include:

- ACC 453 Money & Economics (3 credits)
- MSB 571 Ethics for Accounting (3 credits) Note: Check to make sure this class will not be required for the CPA exam if you plan to take it.
- ACC 522 Advanced Taxation (3 credits)
- ACC 531 Advanced Management Accounting (1.5 credits) and ACC 541 Financial Statement Analysis (1.5 credits)
- MAcc Electives (12 credits)
- Professional Elective (ACC 551, ACC 552, ACC 555, ACC 556, or ACC 591R) (3 credits)

2. Courses that cannot be waived that are required for the undergraduate degree:

- FIN 520 Business Finance
- GSCM 530 Operations Management
- HRM 540 Organizational Behavior
- STRAT 560 Strategic Management

3. ACC 241 Business Law is automatically waived for the MAcc if you have not already taken it (this doesn't count as one of the 12 credits from above).

4. Up to twelve (12) MAcc credits can be waived for the JD. You must take these credits after 1L year. You may not count MAcc/accounting classes from your pre-1L year(s). Any accounting classes taken beyond the twelve credits will not count towards JD graduation.

5. The following courses count for the JD and the MAcc, and you can substitute or receive cross credit for up to two classes.

LAW 636 Partnership Tax counts for...	ACC 522 Advanced Taxation or any MAcc Elective
LAW 642 Corporate Taxation counts for...	ACC 522 Advanced Taxation or any MAcc Elective
LAW 796R Tax Policy counts for....	ACC 522 Advanced Taxation or any MAcc Elective

6. If you have any questions about your credit requirements, talk with the MAcc Academic Advisor. The BYU Law Registrar is unable to address any questions related to your MAcc or undergraduate credit requirements.
